"Myrene has the attention to detail, energy, and enthusiasm that every organization needs to thrive. In working with Myrene at the American Communication Association (ACA), Myrene happily wore many hats -- from project leader to cheerleader -- and she was always happy to do it as long as the organization benefited. Myrene's goal-oriented style and effective communication style helped ACA take on new projects, achieve greater relevance, and reach beyond the traditional limitations of a virtual organization."

"Myrene is an exceptionally bright and communicative person. Her keen insight and her ability to organize and motivate large diverse groups into achieving a common goal is amazing. She took on a leadership role in a group that was plagued with miscommunication and she brought clarity and compassion to the whole and created a sense of teamwork through her infectious enthusiasm. If anyone can lead a group successfully, Myrene can!" November 26, 2008
